WAVERING in that strange twilight between oblivion and half-consciousness, instinct struggled with physical weakness. I was aware of the fire. I could feel its heat, but my muscles refused to recognize the need. The best I could do was drag myself, inch by inch, from the crackling flames, while Carl, the death trap neatly sprung, sped away.

Frank had spoken of the police, the FBI. My numbed mind didn't grasp it.

Somewhat, I got to hands and knees, staggered crazily to my feet. The flames were higher behind me, crackling hungrily, fanned by wind from a broken window. Carl hadn't overlooked a thing.

I lurched toward a door, knowing that I would never make it, that I was falling—falling—

Blackness rolled in, great swirling waves of it, cool and damp and—so black.

PUT out my hand. I listened to the stillness that was soothing and not terrifying. I opened my eyes.

Above me was one of those soft, muted greens that hospitals go for these days. The room was small and decidedly antiseptic.

"Are we awake?"

The voice was soft, yet firm with nurse-like assurance.

"What day is it?"

"Thursday." When I turned my head to look at her, the nurse smiled. "You have been with us two days, Miss Tobias."

"Did they catch Carl?"

"Doctor says you're not to talk," she hedged neatly.

"They didn't!"

"Now, Miss Tobias—"

I touched fingers to my face. "Don't 'Now Miss Tobias' me! He gave me this, he left me to die—"

"There, there. I know," she

Side Glances

"Keep your room tidy, Bill! You won't have me to pick up after you, and you want to impress the generals!"

I told O'Brien what I thought of him.

"Sure, and I know how you feel, Miss Tobias. But Bill Stuart was higher than a kite next day when some dame from up-state identified that dead girl as her runaway sister. So she couldn't be Mrs. Leigh. And if she wasn't Mrs. Leigh, then this Carl Metzker had lied. So—" he shrugged—"maybe you had been telling the truth. Anyhow, the lieutenant passed the word along, and us boys got busy."

"You're nowhere to be found, apartment empty, clothes there but you don't come home and you don't show for your job. Metzker's busy as a hen on a hot griddle, seeing this and that gent that nobody in the building recalls seeing before. Then this doll shows at his apartment, they and these two thugs who think they're smart operators get in the car and head for Jersey."

O'Brien sighed. "We're sure going to need your testimony, Miss Tobias. With you we can crack Burson, tie him and Metzker and Mrs. Burson-Leigh up like a birthday present. But you are all we've got to do with—yet."

"Is that why all the rush to save me?"

"Partly," he admitted it blandly. Then he grinned, and the sun shone in Old Erin. "We lost them in Pennsylvania. They slipped through our spot-check, switched license plates, probably. So the boys bore down harder in New York till they found the railroad clerk who remembered selling a ticket to Hollister, Ind., to a 'sort of a blonde.' He remembered the town because he has the sort of mind that whistle-stops stick in his mind. Your description tallied with what we'd got from Stuart and a picture we lifted from your apartment. Except for the hair, which there was traces of in the fireplace."

"So here we are," Timothy O'Brien leaned back on the chair that looked frail beneath his bulk. "You've got lots to explain, Miss Tobias. You might as well begin."

IT took time to digest that. Lieutenant Stuart was the name of the cop who was grinning like a Cheshire cat when I left his office.

Looking Backward

Forty Years

News was received from Washington, D. C., that president Howard A. Taft would be a visitor to the Missouri State fair the first week in October, the month in which the fair had been held for several years.

July 2 in Sedalia was the hottest of the year the thermometer in front of the Democrat-Sentinel office on South Ohio registered 105 degrees at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

Will Barde, city editor of the Springfield, Mo., Leader, was in the city visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Barde.

A report (no one knows where it originated) to the effect that the sprinkling of lawns in Sedalia is to be prohibited by the City Water company, unless we have a down-pour of rain before next Sunday has no foundation. "We have plenty of water in Lake Tebo" was information from the office of General Manager L. P. Andrews.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Liberty Bell Did Not Ring on July 4, 1776

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

PHILADELPHIA, July 3—Tomorrow the nation and this city celebrate the 175th signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Here are the facts about that great cornerstone of our liberty which some of us may not know or have forgotten:

The Liberty Bell did not ring out when the Declaration was signed July 4. It rang only on July 8, at which time the Declaration was read in the public square, now Independence square.

Failure to rejoice on the first day was due to the fact that the signers were by no means popular. They got angry glances on the streets of Philadelphia, were considered "radicals," and called "dangerous persons"—even after the revolution was a year old. . . . Four months after the signing, a powerful group in the Continental congress—chiefly from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, New York and South Carolina—wanted to give up the revolution. It was only by bare majorities that the young radicals were kept intact.

New York even abstained from voting for independence for a week.

That Boston Party—If it had not been for a monopoly and British business bungling, we might still be a part of His Majesty's empire. The British East India company had a monopoly of the empire's tea business and like most enterprises that lack competition, it almost went broke. To get out of the hole it raised prices, which in turn caused smuggling. . . . One of the best known signers of the Declaration of Independence, John Hancock, was a top smuggler, who got caught with a warehouse full of smuggled tea a time when the British reduced prices and permitted tea retailers to buy direct from the company. . . . Naturally Hancock was sore. In fact, he resented this "unfair" competition and rather than lose money on his smuggled tea, organized the Boston Tea Party. . . . British retaliation against the city of Boston was one of the biggest factors in leading up to the Declaration of Independence.

Old Fashioned Taxation—The Stamp Act, which got everyone so excited was only eight cents for a bill of lading and two shillings threepence for a mortgage. It chiefly hit bars, liquor sellers and newspaper advertisements. . . . Newspapers refused the tax and printed death's heads in their upper right-hand corners. . . . Today with Congress passing one of the biggest tax bills in history the old Stamp Act looks pretty good. . . . British national taxes at that time following the seven years war with France, 30 per cent, which is a lot more than the Greeks, Italians and Germans pay today. . . . Eventually the British removed the Stamp Act. . . . Now, we instead of paying a few pence on bills of lading and liquor licenses, pay nothing to need your testimony, Miss Tobias. With you we can crack Burson, tie him and Metzker and Mrs. Burson-Leigh up like a birthday present. But you are all we've got to do with—yet."

"Is that why all the rush to save me?"

"Partly," he admitted it blandly. Then he grinned, and the sun shone in Old Erin. "We lost them in Pennsylvania. They slipped through our spot-check, switched license plates, probably. So the boys bore down harder in New York till they found the railroad clerk who remembered selling a ticket to Hollister, Ind., to a 'sort of a blonde.' with Edward Rutledge of South Carolina, 27.

Who the Founders Were—When John Hancock signed the Declaration, he wrote his name in large letters so the King of England could see it without using his spectacles. Hence the present synonym for "signature"—"John Hancock." . . . Roger Sherman, who at an early age traveled on foot from Massachusetts to Connecticut, carrying his shoemaker's tools with him, was one of the committee of five appointed to draft the Declaration. . . . When Charles Carroll of Maryland signed, he added "of Carrollton" after his name so the British would not arrest his cousin Charles by mistake. Carroll survived all other signers, dying in 1832 at the age of 95. . . . John Witherspoon of New Jersey was a native of Scotland. When asked whether the country was ripe for independence he replied: "Sir, the country is not only ripe but rotting." . . . John Hart also of New Jersey was a farmer who was so intensely hunted by the British that he spent most of his time during the revolution, hiding in the Jersey swamps. . . . George Walton of Georgia was a carpenter's apprentice, who studied law at night, later fought in the revolution. . . . William Williams of Connecticut, when things looked blackest, remarked to the Connecticut safety council: "If the British arms are successful, one thing I have done they will never pardon. I have signed the Declaration of Independence. I shall be hanged." . . . To which another council member replied: "Anyway my life is safe. I have not signed the Declaration nor written anything against the British government."

"Then," snapped Williams, "you should be hanged for not doing your duty."

do NOT count toward Social Security payments?

Answer: "The owner or operator of a farm does not get credit toward old-age and survivors insurance payments from his farm earnings. Income gained from self-employment as a physician, lawyer, dentist, professional engineer, and certain other professions is not counted toward social security benefits."

The food scarcity in Bihar and Bengal has brought an additional 3,000,000 people under a kind of rationing—distribution through controlled "fair price" shops.

Helium Gas to be Used on the Declaration of Independence

AP Newsfeatures

Helium gas will be used in an effort to preserve the Declaration of Independence. Ink on the document is fading fast. A magnifying glass is needed to make out some of the signatures. The gas also will be used on the Constitution which is still in good condition. Both will be sealed between panes of glass Sept. 17. Meanwhile trial runs are being made with facsimiles. Here are some pictures of the process.

COVER — Dr. Roy W. Wampler puts glass over the top of the Declaration. He's research director of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., which will seal the documents as a public service. Alvin W. Kremer (left) of the Library of Congress watches the test sealing of the facsimile.

TESTING — Leakage of helium from the glass cases might be a future danger for the documents. Here, E. C. Creitz of the National Bureau of Standards shows how periodic tests will be made. He is using an instrument which he developed to detect any changes in the gas.

RHEUMATISM PAINS
Relieved in Few Minutes

It is now easy to aid rheumatism pains. The test will cost you nothing.

So why suffer another day from the agony of this painful ailment when you can secure MUSCLE-RUB, the new preparation that not only relieves the pains of rheumatism but also lumbago, muscle soreness, sprains, as well as the less serious lameness of muscles and joints? It is no longer necessary for you to dose your system with internal medicine. The entire MUSCLE-RUB treatment is a simple liquid, applied directly to the limbs, shoulders, neck, face or back—wherever the trouble may be.

"THANK GOD FOR MUSCLE-RUB" SAYS CALIFORNIA RHEUMATIC SUFFERER
I bought everything I could buy for my rheumatic pains but got no results until I tried MUSCLE-RUB. The pain in my right arm was so bad I could not raise it. Thank God for MUSCLE-RUB—I used it—and now I feel fine. I am a carpenter, 61 years old—working every day now. I have learned and it has given me satisfaction. I can work and dance without pain. You RUB in the house.

MOTHER SAYS MUSCLE-RUB IS A GODSEND FOR RHEUMATISM PAINS
I had such pain in my legs and knees, I heard about MUSCLE-RUB and got a bottle. Now I feel like a new person. My mother, 77 years old, has rheumatism in her shoulders and arms. I used MUSCLE-RUB on her and in 20 minutes the pains were relieved. I will never be without MUSCLE-RUB to all.

For 3 years up to last June, I was unable to go dancing unless I wore some kind of brace. I had pains and swelling of my ankle which I injured running for a week. After nothing seemed to help, I bought a street car. He told me how much MUSCLE-RUB helped her husband. I bought a bottle and I'm happy to say that now I can work and dance without pain. ## THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD

On It's 100 Years of Transportation Progress

They Made Transportation History At St. Louis On July 4, 1851

FLAGS FLEW from the public buildings and over the streets of St. Louis on the 4th of July in 1851. Bands played and a colorful procession of gleaming carriages, smartly uniformed military units, fire engine companies and other marching groups---some two thousand people in all---wound its way through the streets of Mincke's Grove, then on the the outskirts of the city.

A large part of St. Louis' populace and hundreds of visitors gathered there that day to witness the ground-breaking ceremonies for the Pacific Railroad, first to be built west of the Mississippi River. They cheered as Mayor Luther Kennett turned the first spadeful of earth that launched a new ---and the greatest---era of transportation in the West.

No trace remains of Mincke's Grove in St. Louis now but there is a Pacific Railroad. It is the modern Missouri Pacific Lines, proud of its heritage as the West's first railroad in 1851, but even more proud of the consistent progress that has kept it among the foremost railroads of the West--Southwest in 1951.

Because Sedalia's growth, progress and prosperity has been closely linked with that of the Missouri Pacific Railroad for many years, the people of Sedalia salute this fine institution on its 100th Birthday occasion.

A Century of Progress For Missouri Pacific

Brief Summary On Starting of Lines To West

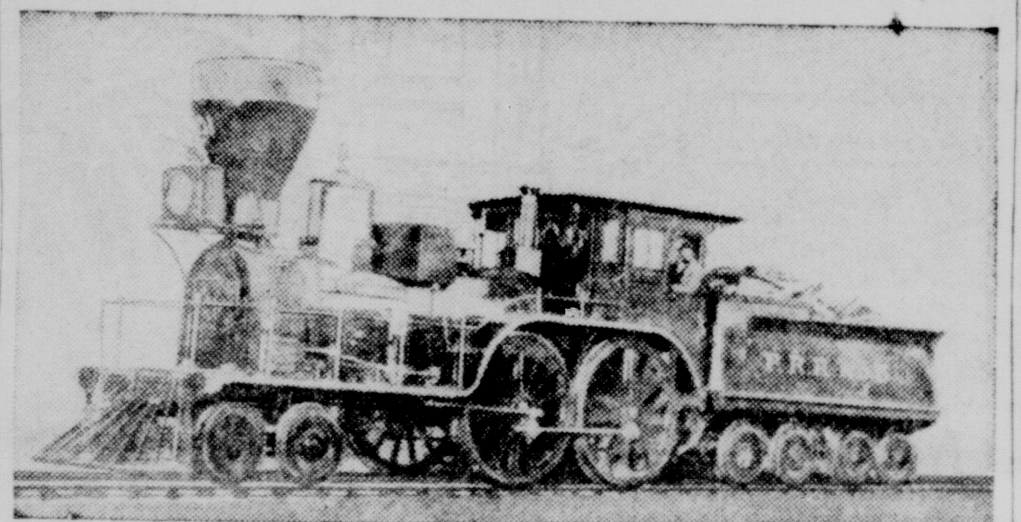

A century of service will be completed this week by what is now the "Missouri Pacific Lines" as its real beginning was on July 4, 1851, when, amid a great celebration, ground was broken in St. Louis for the start of the Pacific Railroad. Surveys of the Pacific Railroad had been made in 1850 under the direction of James P. Kirkwood, a noted engineer in his day, and the first section of the line, about four miles long, was opened for passenger transportation in December, 1852, as the first railroad operation anywhere west of the Mississippi river.

The first locomotives were built in New England and were shipped by ocean vessel to New Orleans and transferred to river steam-

From its earliest days the Missouri Pacific and its predecessors, companies or affiliates, operated car ferries across the Mississippi. This ferry, at Steins Street, St. Louis, Mo., was photographed probably in the 1890s, although the service was established in 1872 and operated until 1902. The boats, the "Missouri" and the "Pacific" were kept busy transferring freight cars across the river.

boats for movement to St. Louis. Other individual railroads, now integral parts of the Missouri Pacific Lines, were also under construction during the decade from 1850 to 1860. These early lines were pushed westward and southward from St. Louis, and northward from the Texas Gulf

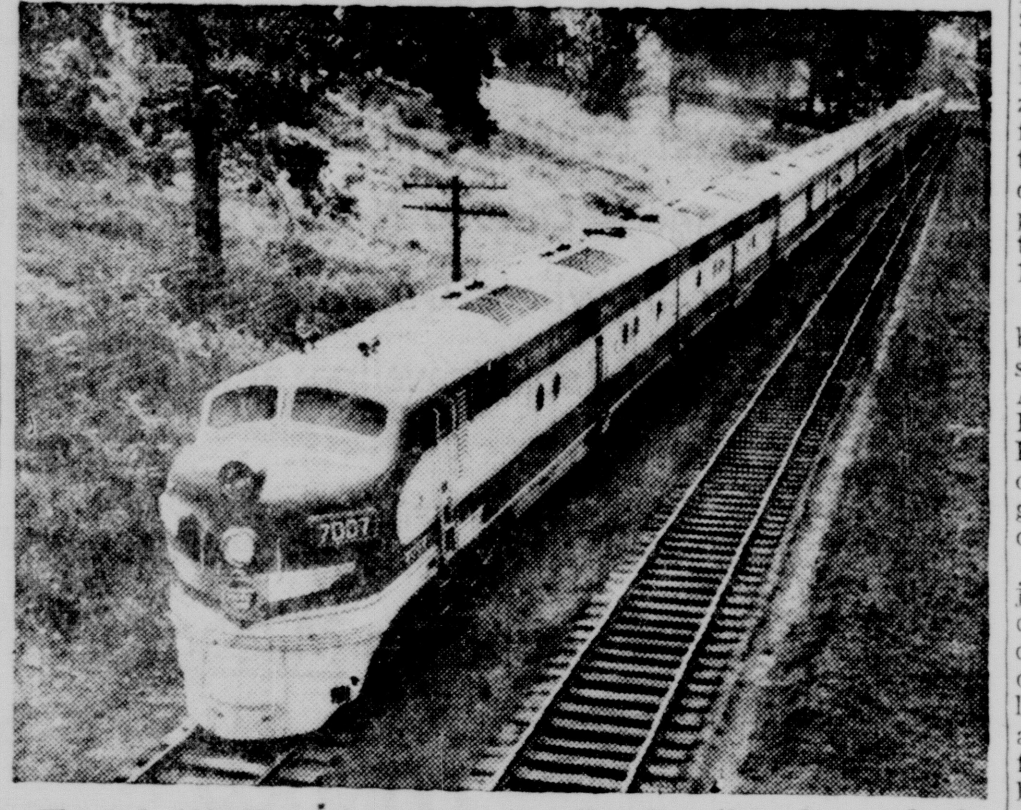

This historic old engine, Pacific R. R. No. 3, is an exact duplicate of Pacific No. 3, the first locomotive to operate west of the Mississippi river. No. 3 was built in Taunton, Mass., and was shipped by ocean vessel to New Orleans from whence it reached St. Louis by river steamer, August 20, 1852. It pulled the first passenger train over the four miles of road opened December of 1852.

Coast, into undeveloped territory. As a result, towns were founded which later developed into major cities along the railroad.

War Caused Losses

The Civil War was a serious blow to all of the early railroads. They not only suffered severe losses through direct war activities, but also were unable to progress their construction activity.

Through 100 years of progress in railroading there has evolved this modern, diesel-powered streamliner, Missouri Pacific's "Texas Eagle," latest addition to the fleet of other well-known trains.

Thus, the Pacific Railroad was unable to complete the line into Kansas City before 1865.

The end of the war was followed by an era of renewed railroad construction. The Pacific Railroad was soon extended to Leavenworth and Atchison. The Iron Mountain Railroad was extended across Arkansas to a point on the Texas border named Texarkana.

Similarly, the Houston and Great Northern, and the Texas and Pacific had constructed westward from Marshall to Texarkana. At this time each of the properties was independent of Composed of Twelve Splendid First-Class Passenger Boats, running in connection with the Road, making all intermediate landings between Jefferson City and St. Joseph.

Passengers taking this Line will avoid detention at St. Louis, more 50 miles to the city, and the delays of 175 miles of difficult river navigation, and make the trip from St. Louis to Kansas in 48 hours. Baggage checked to its destination and transferred to boat free of charge.

THROUGH TICKETS may be obtained, securing meals and berth on the Boat, at the Passenger Depot, corner Seventh and Poplar Streets, or at the Company's Through Ticket Office, under the Plaster's Hotel, and No. 19 North Laves.

T. McKISOCK, Supt.
R. W. WALLACE, Gen'l Ticket Agent.

This old advertisement of the Pacific Railroad appeared in the Missouri Gazette of 1860. Note that the trip from St. Louis to Kansas (City) could be made in the fast time of 48 hours! But the journey was not entirely by rail: Pacific Railroad Packet boats were used from Jefferson City to the growing metropolis on the Kansas state line.

Shops Located Here Nearly a Half Century Ago

By Palmer Nichols, Chief Booster Missouri Pacific Booster's Club

Once upon a time a civic-minded man who was mayor of a very young but ambitious community, conceived the idea that if a large industry should locate in this community, the population would increase, business would increase and the people in this section of the state would profit.

So he, and others prominent in the community, began to put this idea into effect and after numerous trips to St. Louis and through contacting various officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, they were successful in interesting these officials in the possibility of locating the general shops at Sedalia, Missouri. The story of the efforts of Mayor J. L. Babcock and these aggressive citizens to secure this large industry for Sedalia is one that speaks for the determination and never-say-die spirit of the civic-minded people of Sedalia nearly a half century ago; to be exact March 28, 1904.

When it was first decided to build a general shops, several sites were proposed: Kansas City, Atchison, Kansas, Pleasant Hill, Leavenworth, Kansas, and Sedalia. Kansas City was rejected because of a flood and the people could not guarantee that this would not recur.

One by one the sites were rejected until only Sedalia and Atchison remained in the field. The citizens of Atchison made the best offer, $300,000.00 and 120 acres of land and a coal mine which was already in operation, but this was finally rejected because of its location.

Citizens Groups Active

In the meantime, the citizens of Sedalia were working on the proposition and a committee made a trip to Baring Cross, Arkansas, where the general shops of the Southern Line were located and spent many a day inspecting them. This committee was composed of: F. C. Combs, A. C. Lee, T. W. Bast, J. W. Mellor, E. A. Stevens, C. P. Curtis, O. E. Parsons, J. N. Dalby, T. H. Johnson, H. H. Hawkins, Charles Carroll, W. D. Igenfritz, M. W. Cadle and C. E. Andrews.

rent installation of radio communications equipment on all main-line diesel freight and passenger locomotives, the Missouri Pacific assumes a position of leadership among the nation's railroads in the use of modern electronic devices.

Montgomery Office Headquarters

The office of J. T. Montgomery was taken over by the committee to be used as headquarters for the next morning the work to raise the huge sum of money was begun.

Cards were sent to all taxpayers and the responses began to roll in. Notes were signed from $5,000.00 down to $5.00. Banks and individuals took care of the notes. So the total sum was raised and the committee reported to Mr. Harding. Then with the goal virtually achieved, they got another jolt by being informed that the Missouri Pacific was not looking for notes but that they wanted the hard cash. The committee returned home and began the job of converting the notes into cash, Mr. Harding agreeing to allow a discount of 6 per cent of the original amount making a total sum of $188,000.00 in cash.

On Tuesday, February 2nd, Mr. Harding arrived in St. Louis from a vacation spent in Mexico and the committee went to St. Louis to deliver the certificate of deposit for the entire sum required.

Good News, Wild Celebration

After much secrecy, in which the newspapers did not print a line regarding the negotiations, the committee was called to St. Louis and on March 28, 1904, it was officially announced that the shops would be located in Sedalia.

Word reached Sedalia about 5 o'clock that evening and was the signal for a wild celebration. The roar of a cannon which was placed on the court house lawn, broke several windows. The shooting of fireworks, the blowing of bugles and the music of three bands greeted the word and the news spread like wild-fire. When Missouri Pacific train No. 9 arrived at 3:00 a. m. a large delegation of citizens was on hand to greet the committee and such a celebration was never before witnessed in Sedalia. The date of March 28, 1904 will be long remembered.

The committee which completed the final details were Mayor J. L. Babcock, Hon. J. H. Bothwell, W. H. "Ovett," H. W. Harris and Supt. W. J. McKee and Mr. Harding, general manager of the Missouri Pacific. On March 29th three engineers and a party of assistants began making preliminary surveys of the shops' site. The sites were staked off and preliminary work for the erection of what was to be the largest railroad shops on the Missouri Pacific system was begun. Forty-seven years have gone by since this momentous occasion. Many of those who fought for this enterprise have passed on, but their efforts will never be forgotten. Each time the whistle blows, calling men to their jobs, is a salute to those who gave of their time, money, enthusiasm and untiring efforts that hundreds of workmen should have a place of employment and a community which we are proud to call our home.

Three of First Employees on Job

Of the thousands of employees who have come and gone with the passing of the years, there are only three men now employed at the shops who started working there when the shops opened. They are R. R. Ramlow, machinist; E. W. Payne, pipefitter and John Blue, general machine shop foreman. Three other employees who went to work when the shops were opened are now retired and living in Sedalia. They are George Smith, retired machinist; J. S. McVey, retired machinist; and Frank Royce, retired machinist.

Many physical changes have been made in the shops with the passing of the years. New modern equipment, heavy machines, large overhead cranes, additional buildings and many other changes made to meet the progress of modern railroading.

Diesel Power Takes Over

With the coming of diesel power on the railroad it is but a short time until the system will be completely diesel and the speed and handling of freight and passenger traffic will be greatly increased.

Nation's Top Auto Drivers Lured To State Fair Track For $3000 Stock Car Races

Everybody but a plumber will drive an auto Wednesday afternoon in the super fender mangler Fourth of July 100-mile stock car race that has been arranged for the State Fair one-mile track.

From big cities and crossroads hamlets of Missouri and half a dozen other states, professional and amateur daredevils are coming to Sedalia to drive their cars, none older than 1946 models, in quest of purses and guarantees adding up to some $3,000.

The speedway traffic snarl will commence soon after 1 p. m. when the entrants step on the gas for the one-lap time trials that will determine which of the group will win chances to start in the big race at 2:30 p. m.

For only the 25 fastest cars will be allowed to take starting positions.

Upward of 40 cars and drivers have signed up for the try and only a few cases of cold feet have yet been reported. None are counted serious.

Many Favorites Picked

Some of the favorites are Eddie Anderson, a Grinnell, Iowa, farm boy who wrecked the front end of his factory-new Chrysler at Des Moines Sunday but will have it or another car ready tomorrow; Ernie Derr, who manages an auto parts store at Keokuk, Iowa; Ralph Dyer, a Shreveport, La., motorcycle cop; Bob McKim, an Abilene, Kas., bookkeeper; Tilman Huset, a Brandon, S. D., filling station operator; Herb Craig, a Louisiana country storekeeper; Don White, an Army corporal on furlough from Camp McCoy, Wis.; and Rodney Carter, an aircraft mechanic from Wichita.

Sedalia Represented

Sedalia will be represented by a 1951 model Studebaker entered by the Boots-Olden Motor Company, but raced by a well known professional, Jolie Ray of Portland, Ore.

Derr, the Iowan, will be a red hot target for the field with the same 1950 model Mercury which he wheeled to a spectacular triumph in the 250-lap race Sunday on the Des Moines half-mile state fairgrounds track.

He trailed most of the distance behind Chris Skadal, Des Moines pilot of a 1950 model Oldsmobile, but took the lead in the final 40 laps and held it to the checkered flag. Skadal will be out to win a decision at Sedalia.

Numerous Missions Entered

Missouri will be represented by a strong contingent, including Frank Pascuzzi, Marshall Larson and Dick Walker of Kansas City; Bob Kinchloe and Bobby Tucker, Lebanon; and Bob England, Springfield.

Limited to 1946-1951 model cars the field is predominantly composed of 1950 and 1951 model coupes and sedans. Fords lead in total number of entries, with Oldsmobiles second and Nash, Mercury, Chevrolet, Plymouth, Kaiser, Chrysler, and Studebaker also in the field.

No "Souping-Up" Allowed

A three-man technical committee headed by Everett Green of Sedalia will be on hand to enforce the rules prescribing that all entries must be strictly stock automobiles and not "souped up". Racing tires are permitted in the interest of greater safety.

Sedalia Boy Scouts, a professional court reporter with a stenotype tape and a racing scorer, Norman Thorpe of Moline, Ill., will combine forces to keep track of the lap-by-lap progress of the race, longest ever held at Sedalia.

• Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—(AP)—Bobby Feller was the hero when he pitched his third no-hit game for Cleveland Sunday, but did anybody notice that Jim Hegan caught his third no-hitter at the same time? . . . Hegan, noted as one of the best men behind the plate in all baseball, was the receiver when Don Black earned no-hit fame in 1947 and when Bob Lemon tossed his no-hitter in 1948. Now he has added Feller to the list. . . . Maybe it's an accident because Manager Al Lopez, who caught more games than anyone else, never was on the receiving end of a hitless game. . . . Or maybe it isn't. Lemon, Hegan's buddy since they played in Wilkes-Barre and his roommate now, pointed to Jim when he was being congratulated on the job and said: "There's the guy that did it."

Mitt The Man

When the Indians stopped here for an exhibition last week, Drumbeater Marsh Samuel did a little raving about Hegan. . . . Marsh was elated by the fact that Jim finally were recognizing Jim's artistry behind the plate and making him a close second to yelling Yogi Berra in the All-Star poll. . . . "The guy is terrific," said Marsh. "You can't keep him out of there. He's suffering from a sprained condition and is all strapped up, but he wants to play. . . . This year Lopez is using Birdie Tebbetts to spell him in second games of doubleheaders and that may account for his improved batting average. He's about 260 now where his best average before was .248." . . . One thing the fans may have overlooked is that Jim, despite that average, has ranked 1-2-3 among American league catchers in homers, runs batted in and runs scored for several seasons. . . . His percentage of extra-base hits for times at bat is one of the best. . . . He's been on the All-Star squad before and the managers usually have picked him over Berra for security reasons. . . . "You know, for three consecutive years the Cleveland pitching staff led in earned run averages and I think Hegan is largely responsible," Samuel added. Then, with a sigh: "We got him as 17-year-old schoolboy and the only bonus was a car the scout was driving."

Sports Before Your Eyes

Tom Hamilton, the U. of Pittsburgh athletic director, took time out from the ICAA television debate this week to take Tom, Jr., to Annapolis to start his navy career. . . . Bob Hudson, who personally underwrote the 1947 Ryder Cup matches, will pick up the entire tab for the British team. . . . It hits New York next fall until it reaches Pinehurst, N. C. site of the international matches.

First thing on the program is a winking for the two teams and the press. . . . Ralph Kiner, the Pirates' home run slugger, spent an afternoon off watching Sammy Sneed hit a golf ball yesterday. . . . Sam, after winning his semifinal, said he was going to the ball game last night. "I want to see Kiner hit one," Sam explained.

Hugh Casey Kills Self at Atlanta Hotel

Former Pitching Star of Dodgers Shot in Neck

ATLANTA, July 2.—(AP)—Hugh Casey, former baseball pitching star, killed himself early today seconds after assuring his wife he was innocent of a charge that he fathered a son out of wedlock.

Lieut. C. R. Fleming of the Atlanta police said the former Brooklyn Dodgers player shot himself through the neck with a .16 gauge shotgun in a downtown hotel at midnight (CST).

Mrs. Kathleen Casey, an attractive, 34-year old blonde and the pitcher's estranged wife, said she argued for 15 minutes over the telephone seeking to dissuade him from committing suicide.

She said in an interview she argued desperately with him but her pleas were interrupted by a shattering blast that faded into silence.

When the gun sounded, a friend of Casey's was only a few feet from the door of the 38-year old athlete's room, hurrying to prevent the tragedy.

"I begged and pleaded with him not to do it," Mrs. Casey said, tearfully. "I tried to tell him that it was for God to decide when a man must die but he laughed and said 'I am ready to die—ready to go.' And, she said, he added 'I feel like I was walking out to the pitcher's box.'"

Casey's last words, the distraught widow related were: "I am completely innocent of those charges."

Mrs. Casey explained that he referred to the ruling of a three-judge special sessions court in New York which named the big pitcher as the father of a son born out of wedlock to Hilda Weissman, a 25-year old brunette.

"I can't eat, or sleep since going through all the embarrassment of that paternity case," Mrs. Casey quoted her husband. "And I had to drag you through it, too, but I swear with a dying oath that I am innocent."

The Caseys, who married 13 years ago, have no children. Mrs. Casey said their estrangement had nothing to do with the New York paternity suit.

Fleming quoted a bell boy at the (Atlanta) hotel, who said the former mound star registered last week, as saying Casey told him Saturday that his physician had given him only about 10 days to live because of a heart ailment.

Gordon McNabb, a friend, told police Casey telephoned him shortly after midnight and said he planned to kill himself. McNabb officers related, sought to dissuade Casey, then hurried to the hotel.

When McNabb was about 30 feet from the door to Casey's room he heard the blast. McNabb said Casey had made similar threats for the past three days.

Police Captain Marvin Thomas said Mrs. Casey told him she had tried to persuade Casey not to take his life. The Caseys had not been living together, Capt. Thomas said.

Casey was a native of Atlanta. He began his baseball career with Atlanta of the Southern Association in 1932. He left the Braves after pitching for Pittsburgh in 1949.

He pitched for Brooklyn from 1939 and 1948. In 1947 he established a record for most games pitched in a World Series—six—and for the most games finished in a World Series—six.

Last summer he returned to Atlanta and pitched in relief for Atlanta. At one time this spring he was reported working out with Brooklyn in an effort to return to the majors.

In New York last Dec. 29, a three-judge special sessions court ruled that Casey was the father of a son born out of wedlock to Hilda Weissman, 25-year-old brunette.

The Green Ridge softballers will oppose the Levi's ball team at Center Park tonight—providing the weather will permit. The game time is 8:15.

Elwell or Belsha will be on the mound with Simon catching for the Levi's.

Sunday night the Sedalians dropped a Central Missouri league game to the Marshall K. of C. by a score of 4 to 1. The Sedalians collected 5 hits off the pitching of Davis while Belsha on the hill for the Levi's gave up 6 hits.

Belsha hurled a good steady game for the locals, but his teammates mailed to come through in the eighth when the chances were offered. Simon led in the hitting department getting two for three.

Catching for the locals was Simin while the battery for Marshall was Davis and Barnes.

Murry Dickson Going Strong

By Joe Reichler Associated Press Sports Writer

All Murry Dickson needs to become the first pitcher in 48 years to win 20 games for a last place National league club is 10 more victories and the cooperation of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The last-place Buccaneers, of course, must remain in the cellar.

The 33-year old righthander notched his 10th triumph last night to lead a large list of individual achievements in an unusually active Monday of baseball.

Here are some of last night's highlights as every club but Detroit and the St. Louis Browns saw action:

1. Allie Reynolds' scoreless streak was snapped at 32 1/3 innings and he walked his first batter in 37 2/3 innings. But he gave the New York Yankees a full game lead in the American league race by stopping the Philadelphia Athletics, 14-5.

2. Cleveland catcher Jim Hegan scored all three runs as the Indians tipped the Chicago White Sox, 3-2 with the aid of Lou Brissie's perfect relief hurling for 2 1/3 innings.

3. Rookie southpaw Leo Kelly, in his first big league start, pitched the third-place Boston Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over Washington. Gil Hodges clouted his 25th homer for Brooklyn to help Preacher Roe beat Boston's Braves, 6-1.

5. Jim Hearn of the Giants whipped his Philadelphia "cousins," 4-3, for the 10th time in 11 decisions but he needed relief help from George Spencer as well as Bobby Thomson's 11th homer in the sixth inning with a man on base.

6. Pete Castiglione batted in three Pittsburgh runs with a single, double and triple, and scored twice to lead the Pirates to their 7-2 win over the Chicago Cubs.

7. Stan Musial raised his league-leading batting mark to .370 with two singles and drove in two St.

LONG-HAIRED ART—Lady Godiva rode again in Coventry, England the other day. But instead of a lone Peeping Tom taking a surreptitious gander, as happened with the 11th century original, thousands of persons lined the streets to applaud the current model. It was all part of the Festival of Britain, with actress Ann Wrigg, clad in a flesh-colored bikini bathing suit and a knee-length blond wig taking the role of her historic predecessor.

Independence Declaration Has Had Many Escapes

First home of the Declaration of Independence, signed by 56 patriots from the 13 original States of the Union, was in Independence Hall, Philadelphia.

In December, 1776, British troops battled General Washington's troops back across the Delaware. Forced to flee Philadelphia, members of the Continental Congress used a light wagon to transport the document and other precious papers to the safety of Baltimore.

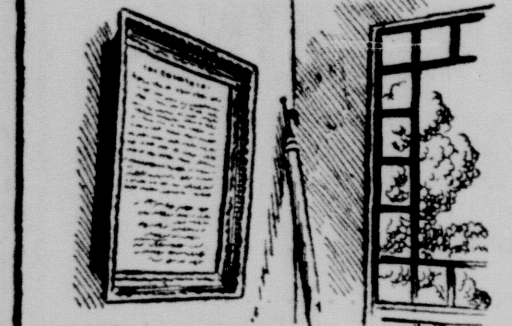

Returned to Philadelphia in 1778, the Declaration's next trip was made in 1783, when angry Colonial soldiers, clamoring for their pay, marched on the State House with fixed bayonets. The lawmakers fled, with the Declaration, to Princeton, N. J.

A silent witness of historic assemblies at Annapolis, Md., and Trenton, N. J., the charter of liberties accompanied the Continental Congress to New York in 1785. There the first U. S. Congress was formed and the Declaration given to President Washington.

The document suffered its next narrow escape in the War of 1812. As the British laid siege to Washington, by now the nation's capital, Gen. Vincent Pleasanton had the government's papers wrapped in linen and placed in carts which were hidden overnight in an abandoned grist mill near Georgetown, Va.

Returned to Washington, the defiant document by which the Union had severed its allegiance to Britain was housed in several buildings—longest in the supposedly fireproof Patent Office Building where it hung for 35 years, exposed to light that made it fade badly.

In 1877, fire destroyed the Patent Office. Fortunately, the precious paper, which had just been brought back from Philadelphia's Centennial Exposition, was, at that time, on exhibition at the library of the State, War and Navy Departments.

For the next 27 years, the parchment was kept in a steel safe. In 1921, by order of the President, it was placed on public view in a permanent shrine in the Library of Congress.

As America celebrates the 175th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, few Americans realize the exciting, thrill-packed life the great document has led. Homeless for the first 101 years of its life, it had narrow escapes from "dangers of invasion from without and convulsions within." It survived journeys to 10 cities in five states as well as two wars on American soil. Above are illustrated some of the adventures the Declaration experienced in its drama-packed history.

Soldiers Long For Home For Fourth of July

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, July 3—Three American soldiers sat atop a nameless knoll in Korea. It was a peaceful twilight. They watched a cloud swim like a great white whale into the setting sun.

Joe One—Well, tomorrow's the Fourth of July. I see by Stars and Stripes it's the 175th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. We ought to do something special to celebrate. I think I'll spit on the sergeant.

Joe Two—I guess I'll wash my socks.

Joe Three—I'm going to write a letter home. Gee, I wish I was home.

Joe One—Home? Listen to the replacement. All he can talk about is home.

Joe Three (defensively)—Well, how long you been over here anyway?

Joe One—They won't tell me.

Joe Two—They don't dare tell me.

Joe Three—Anyway, I wish I was home tomorrow. Maribel and I would go on a picnic.

Joe One—What's a Maribel? A flower, or a new kind of auto?

Joe Two—Sounds more like a horse to me. But I never took one on a picnic.

Joe Three—Cut the kidding. You know she's my gal. I showed you her picture. Her folks and my folks usually go to the fair grounds every Fourth of July for a picnic.

Joe One—What happens?

Joe Two (slapping at a misquoting)—Bet there's a lot of ants.

Joe Three—Oh, the whole town turns out. The mayor or our congressman makes a speech. The veterans have a parade, and there's a baseball game. Then we all have a big dinner, and sit around and watch the fireworks.

Joe One—Fireworks!!!!

Joe Two—Don't they make you nervous?

Joe Three—Aw, cut out the corn, fellows. Hey, I betcha I know something you don't; it was the Chinese that invented fireworks.

Joe One—I wish they'd kept them at home.

Joe Two—Who taught them how to point them?

Joe Three (dreadfully)—And afterward Maribel and I go and dance, and then we take a long ride before going home. We got a favorite parking place of our own. It's on a hill, over a creek.

Joe One—Sounds like a hard day's work to me.

Joe Two—Yeah, ants, speeches, noisy juke boxes, and I some gal jawing at you to get married. It's a lot more quiet and peaceful here.

Joe One—Safer, too. Look how many people get killed in highway accidents nowadays. Bet you three fellows as many people knocked off your riding back home in the last year as was killed here.

Joe Three—Anyway, I still wish I was home. You guys ain't kidding me—at all.

Joe One (yawning)—Well, it's time to sack out.

Joe Two (yawning)—Hear we may have steak tomorrow. A runner from regiment told me that.

Joe One—Say, kid, let's have another look at this Maribel.

Joe Two—Hmmm, nice girl—as girls go.

Joe Three—You guys go on and hit the sack. I'll stay up and watch the fireworks.

Joe One—Well, happy Fourth of July, kid.

Joe Two—And don't forget to wake us up if you hear a bugle.

The two soldiers wrap themselves in a blanket and soon are asleep. Far over the hills a flare drops slowly in the darkness. The third soldier carefully put away the picture of Maribel.

Joe One—ZZZZZZ!

Joe Two—ZZZZZZ—ZZZZZZ!

Joe Three (softly)—Gee, I wish I was home.
